

Garden Warbler (Sylvia borin)

Status: Common breeder

Current trend: The breeding population of this woodland bird is stable or perhaps slightly increasing. Occupying scrub and woodland under-storey in much of lowland Ayrshire, Garden Warblers have shown some ability in recent years to move into slightly less favourable habitats e.g. Willow scrub surrounding hill lochs. The bias of the breeding population is still a Southerly one in Ayrshire though.

Follow up: Continued monitoring of the population, especially in relation to habitat.
